

Whether pepper gardening is your passion, or you're just getting started with that first pot of plants, from now through October you can visit the gardens at New Mexico State University's Fabian Garcia Science Center in Las Cruces. There you'll see peppers being grown the way the pros do it, and possibly pick up some growing tips to take home! Read more about it on the Burn! Blog here